The agent states; "As soon as the Cubans' claim to independence is recognized, 20,600 fighting men will go from this country to aid them. These recruits will be obtained here. There are plenty of Americans who will enlist. No others are wanted. It any Americans are caught by the Spanish after recognition by the United States, they will have to give them the privileges of prisoners of war, which three months at the longest after the United States takes such action Cuba will be free. No attempt will be made to reach President Cleveland, but Major McKinley is pledged to our cause and the government will be influenced to take the necessary steps."

To my comrades and to all who love and trust me:

From the first you have helped the hunted Armenians by your prayers; your sympathy and your honest hard your sympathy and your honest hard work. Thousands of them are today in comfort or in safety because of the intelligence and devotion which you have wrought for our Christian brothers and sisters and the little children on the bleak and dangerous hill sides and in those valleys smitten by outrage and murder. It is a blessed fact that "patient continuance in well doing" is the foremost quality in a white ribboner, for we must do our first works over again, "and more first works over again, "and more also." Hereafter the Armenians can never feel a sense of safety; at least not in our time. The more forceful among them are determined to risk all in the effort to reach freedom, and while it is not for us to strengthen this purpose on their part, we must hold ourselves in readiness to help the refugees who are constantly escaping from the dominion of the Turk. But we must not glet this work cause us to cease sending help to the shelterless and starving who remain in that hapless country. We must give money to establish industrial homes and or-phanages for the women and children, but it must be apparent to all that if we can help to find homes and work CUBANS REJOICE OVER VICTORY.

Lewis, some three months ago, was discharged from the asylum as cured, and was at once taken charge of by the sheriff and held to answer to the crime of murdering Gier.

The point was raised that the man was still insane, or at least had never been pronounced sane by a compentent board and, therefore, in the eye of the law was still insane.

The proceedings yesterday were more in the nature of an amicable investigation to get at the truth than an ordinary trial of a case at law. The state was represented by Assistant County Attorney Elchnor and the defendant by Attorney Pence, A jury was empaneled to decide the mental condition of the unfortunate man and quite a number of winesses were examined. Dr. Meacham and Dr. Robertson testified as experts that Lewis was still suffering from the delusion that Gier, whom he murdered, was going to kill him, and both gentlemen considered that the state of his mind was such that it would be altogether unsafe to allow him to be at large. Lewis was examined and appeared sane on all points except that he thought he had been pursued by people, especially Gier, who wanted to take his life. W. W. Wilson, E. E. Hartvicksen, A. White, B. C. Ward, W. I. Vincent and C. D. Rogers, mostly residents of Sandy, were also examined and testified as to Lewis' hallucination.

The jury retired and in less that five minutes returned a verdict that the man was insane and irresponsible, and his honor sent him back to the insane asylum.

New American Natural Gas and Fuel company was tried before Judge Ritchie, with Attorneys Moyle, Zane & Costigan appearing for the plaintiff and Attorneys W. C. Hall and Goodwin & Van Pelt for the defendant.

The plaintiff alleged in the complaint that he entered into a contract on March 21, 1891, with the American Natural Gas company, whereby he sold the company 60 acres of land at Bountiful, in which natural gas existed, and that as a consideration he was to receive 2,000 shares of the company when it should be organized. J. H. Considered Last Night By the Council Committee.

THE PIONEER COMPANIES.

Discussion Was Chiefly as to the Compensation to Be Exacted-Some Entirely New Features Introduced-May Require Bonds.

The special committee appointed by the city council to consider the applications of the Utah Power company these companies for the franchises.

The skeleton ordinance as drawn up by the city attorney on suggestions from the members of the committee provided that the company should furnish the city with 500 horse power electric energy between sunset and dawn at the rate of $25 per horse power per year. This amount of electricity is sufficient to supply 400 arc lamps of 2,000 canale power intensity. Of course nothing definite was arrived at, the aim of the committee being to insert something so that the matter can be brought before the council in proper shape and there amended matter can be brought before the council in proper shape and there amended to suit the wishes of the majority. The clause binds the company to such a rate for a term of five years or a period optional with the city council. It is also left optional with the city to take any part of the 300 horse power at the same price.

Another provision which the council will endeavor to incorporate in all franchises granted hereafter compels the grantee to allow other companies to string its wires on the same pole line, the council to fix the compensation in all such instances.

in all such instances.

Another new feature not heretofore introduced in franchises is a guarantee from the company in the shape of a bond. In the case of the Utah Power company it has been fixed at $50,000. This is to protect the city in cases of judgments secured against it by reason of negligence on the part of the company. The amount of the bond may be raised above this or it may be entirely done away with, as another clause nullifies the franchise if all the restrictions are not complied with. in all such instances chief executive, and there is little doubt that he will embrace the opportunity to mark out the course he believes ought to be followed by the national government for the maintenance and advancement of the honor and prosperity of the country.

Foreign affairs will naturally claim considerable attention and the president will have an opportunity to congratulate congress and the country upon the solution of the Venezuelan boundary controversy in a manner honoundary controversy in a manner orably and satisfactory alike to the United States and to Great Britain and United States and to Great British and Venezuela. The condition of affairs in Turkey will be discussed in detail, and the president will be able to show that the ordinary diplomatic agencies have sufficed for the protection of American life and property in the Turkish empire.

The last paragraphs of the message to be written will be those dealing with the situation in Cuba. He will avail himself of the latest possible information as to the military situation in the island, and the prospects for the early success or failure of the insurgents may have much to do with shaping his policy. Present indications are that he will make no radical recommendations on this subject.

will make no radical recommendations on this subject.

Although there is no prospect for enactment of any revenue or financial legislation during the rest of his term, Mr. Cleveland is understood to be preparing for an elaborate discussion of these subjects and will recommend legislation which he believes, if carried out, will put the treasury and the financial system of the country on a sound basis.

The president will doubtless express his approval of recommendations for increasing the revenue by imposing revenue duties on tea and coffee and increasing the internal revenue tax on beer.

creasing the internal revenue tax on beer.

The financial reform recommendations of the message will be along the lines of Mr. Cleveland's former suggestions, and will have as their basis the advocacy of the single gold standard as the foundation of the monetary system of the country.

The retirement of the greenbacks and the Sherman notes will be recommended at the same time, to enable the banks of the country to issue circulat-ing notes which will be safe and which can be expanded or contracted in vol-ume to meet the needs of the business of the country.

Mr. Cleveland is alive to the necessity of continuing the expansion of the navy and of constructing coast defenses to put the country in a position to resist foreign aggressions, and the recommendations on these lines made by Secretaries Lamont and Herbert in their annual reports will be seconded in the message. Transferred to Berlin,
